RE: Gregoire wants $26 billion in higher taxes -- is that OK with you?

It was just last year that voters overwhelmingly rejected a tax of 2 cents on a can of soda pop. That's a pretty darn clear no-new-taxes message. Has the public's appetite for taxes increased since then? Quite the contrary. Last month, the we-usually-OK-any-taxes voters in Seattle said "no way" to higher car tab taxes. When even uber-liberal taxpayers are tapped out, it's time for politicians to put their tax-hiking schemes on the shelf for a while. For politicians to prioritize spending using existing revenue. Politicians should be thankful for the increases in revenue they're already getting.

But not Gregoire. First, she announces increasing the sales tax to 10%, costing taxpayers another $5 billion (don't think for a second that her sales tax hike will be "temporary") over the next 10 years.

Yesterday, her hand-picked political cronies announced higher gas taxes and car tab taxes costing taxpayers $21 billion over the next 10 years.

So voters reject 2 cents per pop in taxes and instead of taking the hint, Gregoire pushes for $26 billion in higher taxes -- is that OK with you?

It's long past time for voters to unelect a lot of politicians whose only skill is taking more of our money and making a bad economy even worse.

Jack, Mike, and I are committed to protecting taxpayers in 2012 and beyond. Our efforts are needed now more than ever.

If you like and appreciate our past, current, and future efforts on behalf of taxpayers, please send us a donation for $10, $25, $50, $100, $250, $500, $1,000, $2500, $5000 or more (there are no limits on how much can be given).
